COMPLAINT & INVESTIGATION REQUEST

Ms. Sherry A. Tulk, acting pro se, initially, does hereby present summary complaint, to the Honorable Southern District of West Virginia Court, requesting a thorough investigation of said complaint, and extension for all document submittals, including the follow-up Brief to the Complaint, service of summons, and all further court documents as required, including but not specific to, answers, motions, memorandums, witness and evidence identification, until said complaint investigation is complete, and specific plaintiff actions and further legal matters regarding the complaint and defendants is more specifically identified, including those defendants as to be pursued in complaint.

Although a summary of each potential defendant to the complaint is provided, the final determination of the requested investigation, may clarify additions, deletions, and currently unknown additional individuals, organizations, entities, in addition to charges and full legal recourse and direction. Further, a determination of court venue change may also be identified.

While this request is not typical to the United States District Court Civil docket, the current situation and unique circumstances warrant legal action of the same, to ensure a just, and fair outcome for plaintiff, all involved and impacted. Respectfully.

Story
Tulk, Sherry A.

Relocation to West Virginia was motivated by my desire for a fresh start. The reason for wanting this was that of ongoing professional and personal experiences of intellectual property theft, defrauding and accompanying life and career impacts and destruction. This brief story is a summary of that intellectual property (IP) theft and fraud which began in Ohio, and continues to the present, here in West Virginia. Life and career impacts range from reputation, relational, the ability to attain and retain employment, and thus economic impacts. The result was that not only was I hindered of improving my quality of life, (despite my earned degree and becoming highly skilled), but was instead greatly diminished. Since arrival in WV, I have been open and expressive about these experiences, as I pursued professional and personal interests, establishing and working to move my businesses forward, (including networking and navigating the Charleston startup scene), and attempting to start a new life. I also sought legal, and law enforcement assistance regarding intellectual property theft, fraud, etc. It was not long before I began reading of my business concepts in the local newspapers, after pursuing assistance with my startups from various local nonprofits. This expanded to include other concepts developed prior to moving here, and to aspects of my character, life commitments, values, keywords and phrases, , i.e., my identity. The professional strategies and concepts I refer to are from various periods of time, some the result of my own private research and pursuits, some academic, (bachelor and master level) projects, some listed on my resume, some not. Finally, I initiated my first legal action, for infringement July 2015, and am pursuing additional legal recourse for infringement, and many Cease and Desists. This has become an apparent on-going, intentioned fraud of intellectual property and identity theft, ensuing life and employment hindrance, and it appears with intent to undermine pursuit of protection and legal recourse, by ensuring a survival focus.

Also worthy of note, is that I began reviewing, researching and acquainting myself with local and state organizations, government, community agencies, and area of focus. Although farming, agriculture, energy, oil and gas production, manufacturing, technology and water protection were evident in WV; there were not major, state-wide areas of focus. Also, much of the perspectives were typically outdated and stale, coal focused, with limited areas of innovation focus. Primary areas of strength and viability were an arts movement, and isolated pockets of chemical and technology. This began to change as more relevant programming, projects, and views began to emerge. It became apparent the majority was based on, or incorporating my work, research, projects, and my comprehensive or portions of my developed strategies, none of which were prevalent here until a few months after my arrival. Further, over time it became apparent out of state investment had increased with a GOP led crusade for power behind much of the revitalization.

The following is an example of situations which have repeated themselves in various scenarios, (this occurred in my apartment in Charleston, WV, late Fall 2015): I woke up one morning to find a penny laying on the floor next to my air mattress. This prompted me to check my tablet to see if I had inadvertently dropped one of the pennies I keep with it, somehow missing it on the floor the night before. Both pennies were still in the case with my tablet. I then discovered one of my sd cards out of its' hiding place. When I checked it for recent documents, my business board presentation, and this summary, both files were there, but both were blank. This is similar to many experiences since 2009.

There is more than one document, as the pattern continued – and I continued to document. Also worthy of note – is that while I've attempted to present in a concise, consistent manner, due to computer access for various reasons, such as sabotage of my personal devices – I have not been able to edit as I normally would. Therefore there are issues of presentation, formatting, spelling, and grammar.

(New approach to insurance: there to help life go right". This is the underlying mission of my City Health Initiative. An individual and community health strategy of prevention and wellness, as a primary goal and process, versus one primarily focused on curing acute and chronic illness and disease. The end result is one of improving wellness via prevention of acute and chronic disease on an individual and community basis. This aspect of the new approach to healthcare is transferred by State Farm to their insurance philosophy of accident prevention and life aiding versus after accident response and service.

(Reads as various keywords and strategies I've used, for example, FRESH, innovative, and in my initial business plan, "goal to generate revenue" "partner", "target", and finally, outdoor and indoor signage is an integral part of my business strategy, in addition to online. And, use of written dot com, as I have in emails established for my business board which I lost access to after my personal hidden documents were accessed. Also, I do not doubt advertising here in Charleston Town Center, where I was sure to see, was no coincidence. And final OK, the phrase Outdoor Advertising At Its Best", is one I used to promote my business board strategy on twitter, as; "Innovation at its best", Spring/Summer 2016. And the founder stated he "created" Blue Outdoor, another of my statements regarding my strategies.)

(Expansion and focus in new areas: delivering and changing healthcare utilizing a new model and perspective which pulls from different aspects of my intellectual property and/or work and experience, and incorporates into one strategy: "Blockchain: Opportunities for health care". The proposal on their U.S. website explains; "has the potential to transform health care, placing the patient at the center of the health care ecosystem and increasing the security, privacy, and interoperability of health data. This data could provide a new model for Health information exchanges (HEI) by making electronic medical records efficient, disintermediated, and secure. While it is not a panacea, this new, rapidly evolving field provides fertile ground for experimentation, investment, and proof-of-concept testing."

This and their also recent deloitte digital, including "dreamforce" tech conference, applies my "Efficiency", tech integration, comprehensive, customer focused, approach with my own personal concerns and harping of "security" and "privacy". The Health care proposal is a direct take from my Health Initiative while the technology/digital is based on my protected intellectual property, new business marketing strategy. Then is the LEED CERT & commitment to greenbuilding, the first step in my City Health Initiative, in 2013, which is just after I completed a summary writing of the Initiative, which I gave no one, yet appears to have been taken. This is just another example of the continued passing to top level buddies, my intellectual property and strategies, and undermining of my own success implementing, beyond outright hindering my actual work to accomplish. Furthermore, this is validated by a new excerpt on their website: a "Strengthen Our Community" link, my business marketing copyrighted strategy. Additionally, their original financial services work, is hiring and the job description includes portions which read as if I wrote it, and includes my keywords, and now makes it about innovation – which is also new. Last, my other focus of "history is presented taking viewers all the way back to the 10th beginning individual founder, finishing with "We believe in the power of one, what will you do", (of course they do, been taking from One to innovate their company). (Another one started after my monitoring my habits. Many of the tips are my practices, such as meal planning prior to shopping, and actually eating leftovers, and I've been very creative in my meal preparations. Finally, observations during a challenging period to meet my basic needs, made the observation of my struggles relevant as a problem, that the problem was prevalent, and that acknowledgement and education, with actionable tactics is the greatest tool to combat not only food waste, but hunger, as a nation, and globally.

(After discovering fraudulent use of my created strategies, I began making note, and vocal acknowledgement of. This I soon realized, led to a cover of sorts, which consisted of three approaches. The first was a common practice of incorporating into existing programs of an existing program. The second, to repurpose, into a new or existing program. These first two are attempts to cover that are my intellectual property. The third, is an outright arrogant use of by a new entity, or an existing, with no attempt to cover or hide. This organization, as many other existing healthcare, or chronic disease fighting organizations, have been provided and reinvigorated with the collaborative public/private aspect core to the City Health Initiative, and philosophy of wellness and preventativeness, as another core feature, and finally, incorporating both into programming and fundraising. Even if some of these aspects to were already a part of the entity work, they were reinvigorated with the City Health Initiative philosophy of local, and wellness, as opposed to the former focus of Cure.

(Looked at Lysol after commercials of “one click” (a line in my patent application) and others of “healthy”. Found their website to be full of and relevant to My City Health Initiative”: “Lysol has been striving to help families live healthier.”; “We have a passion for “health”...We thrive on educating and inspiring people to live healthier.”; “Lysol Mission for “Health”...Your family’s “health” is important to you, and that’s why we’ve started the Lysol Mission for Health. In homes, schools, and businesses around the world, we’re spreading the message that healthy habits lead to happier lives. Whether we’re educating parents or lending a hand with disaster relief, we’re committed to doing more for health.”; “Health Habits Program is all about health at school: educating teachers, parents, and kids on the best ways to keep germs at bay and prevent illness.”; “Happiness starts with ‘Healthing’”; “one click”; News & Events: “Stay in the know with the latest health and hygiene tips, new product announcements, best health practices, Lysol events, and more. (I presented a Public Private Takeover Strategy to the Infrastructure working group, who, that night was just Kunkel. I told her I believed this need e do to happen, gave a handful of points why, a couple initial first few steps, and that I wanted to b e a part of it. She wrote a summary of this to the entire working group, with documents to start the first outlined phase, and a link for me to join the online conversation. I somehow lost email access for a brief period, and was also working on a crucial stage of my business. I determined I would begin work on the strategy, despite Mayor Daley dismissal, and Kunkel statement. After regaining email access, I discovered the join link had expired, and the working group had moved forward with that first phase, and produced a summary document. When I tried to join, the group was past it, and I had no access. I later, after the first business hurdle, went back to Kunkel and requested resend the email. Stated she'd deleted, and forwarded the documents I requested to base the first outlined phase on. Shortly after, there was a media announcement which Kunkel and cronies proposed the next phase of ASWS; PUBLIC TAKEOVER OF THE PRIVATE WATER System. This led to the start of an entire but separate movement on "Our Water".) Also worthy of note is Kunkel's response, word for word same as those of Wendy Kelloggs' a few years prior, when I wanted to move a sustainable landscaping, and stormwater management project forward on the CSU campus, similar to one developed by a master course project of the same, for a Wendy

Tulk, Sherry A.

Kellogg taught course: "Nobody's interested – there's No Money". Also of interest, Kellogg began this project, and a movement based on My oft stated, "Water is one of our Greatest Natural Resources". Also, regarding Cathy Kunkel – have ensured absolutely No contact information available anywhere, including deleted document on my tablet and usb. Original info found for contact info was Cleveland, Ohio (early wrb search listed or worked for located in Cleveland, Ohio. Most recent (June 2016 listed as located in WV, but not contact information). It appears the group, knowing there was potential for action, made sure no contact information was available after my contacting the group for handling of my ip. And in fact, the attorney below tried to play intimidator, (as did Karin Ireland, when I attended a ASWS meeting winter 2016, and out in public in general), and other such tactics to discourage any legal action.)

(New transportation analytic methodology modeled to jurisdiction and location specific determinants and need, and specifically, based on my Transportation Innovation Strategy summary. "Comprehensive", "Strong", __ADD SUMMARY OF FROM DOCUMENTS OF THEIR PROMOTED STRATEGY BASED ON MINE_) This strategy is an independent work after taking a research finding, I developed as a Public Policy Fellow, to a higher level of analysis – and developed another planning theory, specific to transportation and economic development, to plan for community and economic development and business growth simultaneously . As a Public Policy Fellow, my approach was to utilize cost benefit analysis, taking a more detailed analysis, of that conducted by Ned Hill and another individual, (a grad student assistant I believe). This start from a summary of findings from the research of public/private services provision, compelled me to further research and analysis on my own, after the Fellowship ended. While I could not put the time into it I wished to, (due to personal and employment and therefore challenging circumstances), I did write a summary article.

A few situations regarding this summary article, and the Health Initiative, are worthy of note. Both summaries were written while I stayed at Valueplace in Avon, Ohio. While there, I experienced a repeat of the past, I stepped out to do laundry on the first floor,

(from the 3rd), while leaving my laptop on the bed, open, and came back to discover someone had been in my room. This occurred just after both were printed in first draft form at the Cleveland State University Western Campus, in Westlake, Ohio. And finally, backtracking to the summer I first applied cost benefit analysis to the data research data I found and compiled. In September 2012, I was sitting in College of Urban Affairs College foyer, on the CSU campus, and the other Public Policy Fellow, hired by Cuyahoga County, and who used my numbers in his hijacking the verbal presentation, with my work, i.e., findings/numbers, entered the building and took the elevator upstairs. I knew he was there to learn how to apply the cost benefit analysis. Due to his evident attitude and work within the team, I knew a couple things; 1st, it was best to hide my work, by using Excels cell option to hide formula contents; 2nd, to keep copies of my work, as there was concern for maintaining ownership, as he and I were both definitely chosen to be in the group together, by the same behind-the-scenes undermining and orchestrating, politics, and he could not be trusted, particularly when he was quickly invited into the inner circle Web of the County Executive, despite not being the top contributor and thinker – just had the bragging of a Harvard bachelor degree. Shortly after completing, I approached three organizations to publish, providing a one paragraph excerpt, but when I did hear back from the Ohio APA, (asking for the full article to review first-AS IF!!). I informed them I had decided to wait until able to apply my theory through employment in the field. While this Never happened, I was oft emailed and invited to join webinars and/or phone in conversations on transportation related issues, policy changes for proposal, and developing a new strategy for meeting transportation needs and challenges. I intended to not contribute to the two I took part in, due to earlier intellectual property situations of using my IP Elyria politicians, and a creeping sense Not to. In October 2014, I established Tulk Enterprises, LLC, a Planning and Economic Development firm, and as I referred to, an umbrella organization to two dba's. This is where I fully intended to apply the strategy, and applicability of the relevant theory. And unfortunately received information of Smart Growth America implementing with partners). Additionally; other concepts based on my education, projects and or intellectual property, as new focus, projects, agenda, vision, and/or incorporated into existing.)

(As with other above listed, Roman numeral entities, water projects, based in-part, on my sustainable landscaping and storm water management, begun after my involvement with advocates for a safe water system, (ASWS). (As we're two landscaping projects here in Charleston, one public, and one private.) As I have always said, "water is one of our greatest natural resources"; real estate adjacent to water – most valuable land, and "our bodies are made up primary of water". While I do not ascertain to be the only to have made such statements, or to be the first to say, the pattern has been, and continues to be, a hounding of, monitoring and extracting attempts regarding my thoughts work, and priorities, and then turned into programming, projects, departments, businesses, and/or incorporated into existing, and always without my consent, approval, and at my expense, i.e., no credit or compensation. And in fact, as other notations indicate, entire movements and new approaches, programming and theory are the result of these actions, based on my unsolicited and unwanted illegal privacy invasion, monitoring, wifii use, and electronic device hacking, by those who have treated me as a bug to dissect, and a resource to extract from. This water movement is based on this, and reinforced by additional situations, such as the Flint Michigan water, lead and infrastructure crisis.)

The only responder was Jim Edwards, of CURA. He met with me twice, the first time in his office mid September 2014, where he spoke of the restructuring of each Main Street to be overseen by a new forming entity, Charleston Main Street. The expectation was for Cavender to be hired as the Executive Director, head of over site of both East & West, and Economic Development, and a Program Manager to be hired for each. Edwards also mentioned that Cavender had just reached out to CAMC, for Health program, applying for a grant. My sensors went up, but I did meet with him one last time, when he took me to lunch at Adelphia. It was about the third week of September at this point. I did not mention concerns of My Health Initiative after he mentioned the Cavender project, nor my intellectual property concerns or issues prior to relocating to West Virginia, nor of any of my business plans and intentions. (All of the above, beginning from West Virginia University, down to White House Rural Council: Health, Education and "Community Economic Development" project funding programming, all based on mine, summarized in "Courage to Change" theme, which is evidently, a theme seeming reflective of my commitment to do so.

(In Sep/Oct __, I set up a Facebook group page based on a particular issue at the time, after starting with a write-up summary, and subsequent call to action. The Facebook process never proceeded past the initial setup stage. I never received the email to finalize, and after approximately half a dozen contacts through Customer support to resolve – I tried one or two additional set ups – to No Avail. The group name: “We The People”. This recently established program connecting participating American corporate giants, in a promoting manner through business-to-business relationship development, and related technology is modelled after business board, dba. This is a business marketing concept developed by Sherry A. Tulk, owner, and sole inventor. This model is under United States Copyright and patent pending status and protection. A Cease and Desist letter was sent certified to American Express Plenti Points program, with verification to be received November 15, 2015.

This letter is to serve as notice to Sudden Link Media to Cease and Desist its' video ad business marketing program. This program is on its face infringement of patent pending, and established Copyright status and protection, and overall consistent with both protections referred to. As the sole creator of the invention, I am also the owner of the Copyright and patent pending status. A verification of Cease and Desist status was requested to be received by October 31, 2015.

Safe Water Advocates
Charleston, WV

Website: <http://asws-wv.org/>
E-mail: advocatesforasafewatersystem@gmail.com

This letter is written to provide notice to Safe Water Advocates organization, and local leaders who are involved. The notice is in regard to the recent campaign for public take-over of the privately held water system currently owned by West Virginia American Water. This request is two-fold, either give credit for the idea and overall strategy and action plan to the individual due, myself, Sherry A. Tulk, or Cease and Desist the recent efforts to avoid legal action against the afore-mentioned.

While my attendance of meetings, contributions and intention was giving and sharing of my profession, education, experience and skill in a voluntary capacity, while getting involved in my new city/state of residence, it was by no means intended for the group or any individual(s) of said group to take credit for that contribution. The ideas I contributed in a selfless manner are still mine, and made possible by my prior research, work, education, and skill development, all of which are the direct result of much personal sacrifice. Although I contributed as a group member, I did NOT GIVE any idea to be taken over, and expected the same treatment as other group members of which, included respect and recognition of individual personal contributions. I find these actions of not only not receiving the same treatment of respect and professional contribution recognition, as well as the taking of my ideas and professional contribution, to be nothing short of offensive, disrespectful and wholeheartedly unethical and unprofessional behavior on the part of some Safe Water Advocates group leaders. Requested resolution of, (credit for strategy), by October 15, 2015.

A recently advertised position for your department, Public Outreach Communications Manager, for the Superintendents Office, Office of Communications and Partnerships, Charleston of West Virginia, reads as and in part, models after my copyrighted and patent pending business board, dba, and City Health Initiative. Both are concepts I developed. The first is a business marketing concept created by me, Sherry A. Tulk, owner, and sole inventor. As mentioned, this is under United States Copyright and Patent Pending status and protection. The City Health Initiative is also a strategy I solely developed, and of which business board is an extension. Thus, this is the reason for this request. A verification of Cease and Desist status receipt was requested by April 15, 2016.

Since relocating to Charleston, WV in summer 2014, I quickly saw the same pattern of implementing my intellectual property begin, (as well as stalking and harassment), and accelerate. This has occurred at all levels of government and community organizations. While my profession of choice is in part motivated by the desire to make a difference, I in no way wish for this to be at my expense, yet that is exactly what is happening. This pattern which began in Ohio, unfortunately continued here in WV after relocation. I have absolutely no intention to allow this to continue without taking recourse to remedy.

Shortly after arrival, my experiences here reflected that the move did not halt the pattern. I then pursued assistance from various levels of law enforcement, to no avail. The pattern eventually became an avalanche of every project, research, and creation I have ever conducted, been a part of, developed, and/or created, being implemented across the state, nation, and some globally. It became apparent a complete access of all my files had occurred. Additionally, projects I had proposed in my prior city of residence when this hellific situation began, we're also begun here. The following is a list of projects specific to the State of WV. This list includes introduced legislation based on my IP.

1. A recently advertised position for your department, Public Outreach Communications Manager, for the Superintendents Office, Office of Communications and Partnerships, Charleston of West Virginia, reads as and in part, models after my copyrighted and patent pending business board, dba, and City Health Initiative. Both are concepts I developed. The first is a business marketing concept created by me, Sherry A. Tulk, owner, and sole inventor. As mentioned, this is under United States Copyright and Patent Pending status and protection. The City Health Initiative is also a strategy I solely developed, and of which @business board is an extension. (A letter was forwarded to this department specifically).

2. The State of WV website redesign. This design incorporates three of my designs together into the new state website. The first is a design I used in prior presentations as a student, and again for a community-based proposal. The other two are the two different styles of my business website, business board.

3. The White Houses We The People

4. Other aspects of Tulk Enterprises, LLC, Slainte, and my business board, copyrighted and patent pending application, incorporated into various programs. Of particular interest is my experience at the Morgan Patent and Trademark Resource Center, (PTRC) July 2015. I traveled to the Center, as I decided this to be the most protective patent application submittal site. As I started the online application process on the PTRC pc, it would not recognize my flash drive. As Marian Armour – Gemmell, of the Morgantown PTRC, sat with and assisted me, she retrieved a WVU laptop, which did “read” my flash drive. This allowed me to get started and continue through the application. Despite this, when complete, I clicked “submit”, the screen immediately returned to the first application page. A validation notification was not provided. When I returned home, I contacted the USPTO, who affirmed the application was not received by the USPTO. While I quickly remedied the situation and resubmitted the application, this was a cause for concern.

5. Entrepreneurial, Manufacturing, Shale, Technology and Chemical, Innovation economies incorporating my research, work and resulting conclusions into existing/new programming here in WV.

Recent and prior media, community events and legislation have clarified that my intellectual property, the creation resulting from my research and analysis, Master level education, and a life-time of skill development are being implemented by your organization. My field of choice is in part, a commitment to making a difference. This does not in any way equate to a willingness to allow others to not only implement, but take credit for my creations. Of particular note, is that I was contacted by Mr. Earl Gohl, in the summer of 2012. His contact was inquiring of my interest in an internship position with programming, which he informed me was hush-hush during this planning stage. Although at that time I affirmed potential interest, I provided no input or any of my research. Despite this, the Appalachian Regional Commission created programming reflective of my City Health Initiative. This includes local foods and economy, poverty reduction and inclusion, collaborative partnerships, economic development, including regional economic development and pursuit of economic diversification, and overall pursuit of a health-based economy, and community and individual health. The mission is in fact reflective of key aspects of my City Health Initiative:

"ARC's mission is to innovate, partner, and invest to build community capacity and strengthen economic growth in Appalachia to help the Region achieve socioeconomic parity with the nation. The Local Foods, Local Places Initiative provides tools for Appalachian communities to make local food more impactful for local economies," said Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) Federal Co-Chair Earl Gohl. "It's exciting to see how community leaders leverage federal support to build stronger and healthier economies across Appalachia.”

Furthermore, every Appalachian organization is implementing these strategies I’ve developed since that time. Also, I’ve recognized additional aspects of my research and work, beyond the City Health Initiative, such as the basis of my marketing business, business board, being implemented through this programming. Interesting, I never heard back regarding the internship in 2012. Last, the attached excerpts are outright copyright infringement of my City Health Initiative, of which, “Integrated Planning and Economic Development” is a key component a phrase I coined, as outlined in my summary of this Initiative.

Therefore, Verification of Cease and Desist status of infringement can be forwarded to the address above. If not received by April 15, 2016, to the address listed below, legal action will be commenced. Thank you for your prompt attention in this matter.

Rainelle, WV Receives 2016 Federal Local Foods, Local Places Award to Integrate Local Food Strategies into Main Street Revitalization and Public Health Efforts ARC Support to Help The Town of Rainelle, WV Implement Community Development Plans

The Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation, in conjunction with numerous local partners, completed the application for this technical assistance grant for Rainelle and surrounding communities. GVEDC Peggy Crowder, Marketing/Financial Director states, “The GVEDC focus on Rainelle is to build a strong local food system within its community to increase access to healthy local food, promote childhood wellness and improve downtown/community revitalization. We are very excited to work with the team of experts to create an action plan to better equip Rainelle for a brighter future. These actions will ultimately boost economic growth in Rainelle and surrounding communities.”

With the 2016 awards, 60 communities nationwide are now participating in the Local Foods, Local Places Initiative. Twenty-two, or more than one-third, of these communities are in the Appalachian Region. ARC is providing direct support to these communities to help them implement their local food strategies as part of their economic development efforts.

Local Foods, Local Places is a partnership between ARC, the Delta Regional Authority, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and the U.S. Department of Transportation. Launched in 2014, Local Foods, Local Places is also part of the White House Rural Council’s Rural Impact work to improve quality of life and upward mobility for children and families in rural and tribal communities.

Previous Local Foods, Local Places communities in Appalachia include Corbin, Kentucky, which expanded its farmers markets and other small businesses; and Williamson, West Virginia, which integrated local food strategies into the town’s community health efforts.

Local food is a targeted investment sector in ARC’s 2016-2020 strategic plan. More information about ARC’s investment in local food development is available at www.arc.gov/localfood.

GREENBRIER VALLEY: GROWING PROSPERITY

The Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation in Maxwelton, WV announces a published article in the Trade & Industry Development May/June 2015 magazine, a publication through Due North Consulting, Inc. T & ID is a bimonthly publication that is dedicated to site selection. Each issue highlights a specific targeted market and is sent to decision makers within that market.

The article, "Greenbrier Valley, West Virginia: Growing Prosperity", written by Juli Anne Patty, features a case study of the economic development program used by the Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation (GVEDC) while, at the same time, showcasing the attributes of the region. Stephen Weir, GVEDC Executive Director, was instrumental with the development of the case study which conveys the GVEDC's unique economic approach, an asset based, called integrated economic development. This approach involves analyzing the area's gifts and expanding on them to develop a better community.

Stephen Weir stated, "We are trying to create sustainable ideas and programs, industries and businesses that will feed each other as they grow." The GVEDC has progressed with many initiatives and collaborative efforts. The Greenbrier Valley Local Food Initiative has been very successful in assisting local farmers. The Greenbrier Valley Grown Brand is utilized by many local producers and recognized by many consumers. The next initiative that will soon be launched is the Local Food First campaign.

Much support and partnerships have been formed due the great work of many individuals and organizations in this region. The GVEDC anticipates greater growth for the Greenbrier Valley. Tom Cross, VP of the GVEDC Board of Directors, stated, "I have always been excited about the future of our Greenbrier Valley, and this article just makes me more excited about our future. The future of the valley starts now."

The case study is a great article. To read the entire article and links to all our websites, please visit gvedc.com. parity with the nation. The Local Foods, Local Places Initiative provides tools for Amy's message spoke of the positive aspects of tourism in West Virginia, one of which is its people. She noted that West Virginians are the number one tourist in WV, with Ohio being second. Starting with WV residents, it is important to educate all of what WV has to offer.

Amy emphasized the importance of staying relevant with the start of revamping the state tourism's website. Her staff is fully utilizing all social media. She stated "We need to grow and thrive, be creative, dynamic and seek opportunities. We need to create new experiences to obtain loyal customers. Our return on investment needs to be large". "With a decreased budget, we must do more with less. Our call center is going to be revamped. People today want information extremely fast. We need to tap in with what motivates people to come to our state, spend money and want to come back". Amy said she welcomes any feedback at Amy.S.Goodwin@wv.gov.

Amy took the time after her message and the dinner, to meet with those attending and answered questions. Louise Barnisky, Marlinton Councilwoman, stated, "I am thankful for the invite to tonight's event and it was nice to see people she has known for such a long time ago. It would be nice to see good things come to Marlinton especially funding for a water plant. She enjoyed hearing Amy's message and hopes she will come to Pocahontas County". Bill Shiflet, GVEDC board member from Monroe County stated, "It was a wonderful evening. Amy seems to be right on track with educating WV first on tourism".

Amy took special time to have a conversation with Cara Rose, Executive Director of Pocahontas County and Convention Visitor's Bureau and Kara Dense, Executive Director of Greenbrier CVB. Kara Dense stated, "The dinner was a wonderful opportunity to hear our new WV Tourism Commissioner, Amy Shuler Goodwin, speak of her direction for the Division of Tourism. Tourism is such a powerful economic driver in the Greenbrier Valley and important to every county in the Greenbrier Valley. I thank the GVEDC for having her."

The Importance of Entrepreneurism and Economic Development in the Greenbrier Valley: Two Programs of the GVEDC Successfully Address the Issue

The GVEDC has made within all its economic development programming, a commitment to include programs and projects that promote business growth through entrepreneurship. The maturation of the process of promoting the development and sustainment of entrepreneurs has netted some recognition for the GVEDC. Two programs, the Entrepreneurial Development Project and the Local Food Initiative have garnered some recognition for their role in promoting business as a career opportunity. The purpose of this project is the development of an entrepreneurial education program imbedded in the local elementary junior high school curriculums while integrating other entrepreneurial awareness building into the overall economic development strategy of the Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation (GVEDC), the multi-county local development organization responsible for the region's business growth and development.

The sixth graders in the Greenbrier County middle schools, where the project was initiated, were presented with an entrepreneurial "creative thinking" pilot project. The Communities in Schools program will be used to implement the first year. A job shadowing program would be implemented in the second year.

Other entrepreneurial programs targeting middle school students are also being evaluated. The Kauffman Foundation has permitted the use of the online site for its "All Terrain Brain" program as a resource in the development of this project.

The facilitator and program coordinator of this grant is Katie Ickes, who served as the Executive Director of the Greater Greenbrier Chamber of Commerce for seven years. Katie Ickes, working with New River Community and Technical College in association with Greenbrier Valley Economic Development, has partnered with Communities in the Schools to teach the Mindset for Success program at Eastern Greenbrier Middle School and Western Greenbrier Middle School.

A number of news outlets have done stories on this program and Katie has been invited to make presentations and join panel discussions about her project. The Mountain Messenger's article entitled "Mindset for Success Program Making a Difference at Middle Schools" highlighted this program. It stated, "Many students do not have a vision of their future and believe they are limited by their current circumstances. Lacking long term goals, they choose to live for the moment and often make unsafe and unhealthy choices. The Mindset for Success program is being presented at Eastern and Western Greenbrier Middle School to address this problem and to encourage innovative and creative entrepreneurial thinking. The program has some components of the All-Terrain Brain program from the Kauffman Foundation for Entrepreneurism. The All-Terrain Brain program and Kauffman's Icehouse program ascertain that having a vision for the future and working towards goals can lead to success and encourage choices that avoid detrimental behavior. An observing teacher noted, "The greatest aspect of this program is that it was that the students who normally struggle in core classes, excelled in this class. It brought students of different levels together as a team and it encouraged them to think outside the box."

In November, 2013, the Appalachian Regional Commission held a conference in Charleston highlighting the developing trend of encouraging and supporting entrepreneurship in Appalachia as a means by which to transform its economy. The conference was entitled "Toward Prosperity: Entrepreneurship; Transforming the Appalachian Economy". The ARC presented a series of case studies to the attendees entitled, "Entrepreneurial Appalachia: Case Studies in Evolving Economic Sectors." The featured sectors included energy, health, manufacturing and local food. The local foods case study featured the Greenbrier Valley and the Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation's Local foods Initiative (GVLFI).

The Appalachian Regional Commission is a federal regional economic development organization created through a joint partnership of federal, state, and local government. Established by Congress in 1965, ARC works to promote sustainable community and economic development in Appalachia.

This report examines the trends fostering a change in the local economies of the region, demonstrating how these changes came about through the use of case studies. Each study examines a particular sector, those involved, how the change took place and the results to date. The reports overview states, "Throughout Appalachia, entrepreneurs are forging a new economic model — one based on local investment and local ownership — and their impact is already being felt in some of the Region's evolving economic sectors... Prompted in part by Appalachia's need for economic diversification, the ARC supported this research as a way to summarize entrepreneurial opportunities within these economic sectors and to examine innovative projects that demonstrate multiple benefits to rural and underserved communities."

The study notes the trends, opportunities and challenges facing the local food productions sectors in Appalachia, saying “The local food sector is particularly promising for the Appalachian Region. Appalachia possesses a variety of cultural assets supportive of local food system development... Appalachia is also home to some of the nation’s most visionary leadership in the local food movement...”

The Greenbrier Valley, in southeastern West Virginia, is the watershed shared by Pocahontas, Greenbrier, and Monroe counties. While efforts in the local food economy have a long history, related initiatives that have been operating since 2010 show great promise. These initiatives include: → The Greenbrier Valley Local Foods Initiative (GVLFI): The initiative, a project of the Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation, provides technical assistance and training for food and farm entrepreneurs; recently launched the “Greenbrier Valley Grown™” brand; and is exploring the feasibility of a processing, aggregation, and distribution facility for area farmers.

Collaboration between mainstream economic development institutions and grassroots organizations has been integral to the development of the Greenbrier Valley local food economy. The Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation (GVEDC) has helped area farmers markets access funding, acted as the fiscal sponsor for non-501(c)(3) organizations, and provided office space for start-up groups. In addition to providing local market outlets, grassroots organizations like the Monroe Farm Market, the Pocahontas County Farmers Market and the Greenbrier Valley Pasture Network also conduct community outreach and education, provide networking opportunities for growers and local food supporters, and help leverage additional resources for the continued development of the food economy. AmeriCorps VISTA positions have been used widely and successfully to increase the capacity of grassroots efforts and train the next generation of local food leaders.

The investments of local, regional, and national funders have also been critical to the development of West Virginia’s local food economy. In 2012, West Virginia received 2 out of the 13 federally awarded Rural Jobs Accelerator Grants offered through a partnership between the Economic Development Administration, the USDA Rural Community Development Initiative and the Appalachian Regional Commission. Also, since 2009, the Natural Capital Investment Fund, through its participation in the Central Appalachian Network (CAN), has provided critical startup funding and organizational development support to grassroots local food efforts.

parity with the nation. The Local Foods, Local Places Initiative provides tools for Dr. Washington’s message spoke of a multitude of educational opportunities for traditional and non-traditional students in the five NRCTC campuses. Dr. Washington also spoke about the many levels of partnerships NRCTC have with area businesses, non-profit s and individuals. These collaborative efforts have led to identifying the educational needs of the community and utilizing many available resources. One such effort has led to the One Room University in Marlinton, WV. It is great example of overcoming obstacles in rural areas. Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation, Greater Greenbrier Chamber of Commerce and New River Community and Technology College have partnered to present Entrepreneurial Cafes and plan to implement entrepreneurial educational programs in the Greenbrier County school system. Dr. Washington attended the last Entrepreneurial Café and was highly impressed with the presentations and local talent.

“The support of President Washington and New River has been crucial to the success of the Cafes. I appreciate his understanding of the importance of developing an entrepreneurial mindset through our student programming and supporting our present entrepreneurs to grow our local economy in the 21st century,” stated Katie C. Ickes, Entrepreneurial Program Coordinator for GVEDC.

Stephen Weir, Executive Director of GVEDC, completed an overview of GVEDC’s latest efforts with the GVEDC Food Program, creating new business in wood products and continued expansion with technology with ABB Appalachian Electronics and UTC. The Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation assists the needs of the business community of Greenbrier, Monroe and Pocahontas Counties, West Virginia. We provide a variety of services to new and existing businesses such as: business financing, general and technical assistance, site selection and most importantly, the highly skilled and loyal West Virginia Workforce.

U.S. Department of Transportation:

May 14, 2016

This letter is to serve as notice to the United States 11th Congress, House of Representatives, and the U.S. Department of Transportation, to resolve intellectual property infringement acts.

Transportation Innovation, a transportation strategy I developed, and prior transportation strategies as part of the “City Health Initiative”, are game-changing Urban Planning and Economic Development concepts I developed. My reason for writing is that these strategies and the tactics and actions to implement are, and were Not, made available for anyone’s use. Despite this, Transportation Innovation was incorporated into the FAST ACT, and the core Transportation Strategy of my City Health Initiative and Transportation Innovation, are both key to the U.S. Department of Transportations current Collaborative, Community and Economic Transportation Programming.

The City Health Initiative is also a strategy I solely developed, and of which, after creating, my intention was to implement through a professional position. When position attainment was not realized, I eventually started my own Urban Planning and Economic Development Consulting firm. The value proposition and niche is that of Health. The Health Planning as Theory defines and clarifies a Health perspective. Application of a true Health planning practice, Integrates a Comprehensive Strategy, ensures missing tactical elements and considerations, and differentiates provisional and functional societal systems. Transportation Innovation, when I created, was from a similar mindset, and naturally fits within the City Health Initiative, Comprehensive Strategy.

I am seeking both resolution and intellectual property protection. My contact information is included. Although my preference is an amicable resolution, I will no hesitate to take legal action if necessary. Thank you for your prompt attention in this matter.

Dear Mr. Zimmerman:

This letter is regarding a recent email received from you, as representative of SmartGrowth regarding a transportation strategy. The email sent November 16, 2015, announced a plan for New Jersey and two other cities to apply a new transportation process, of which, is a process I developed. I dubbed this "Transportation Innovation", as a new methodology of evaluation and provision of transportation, titled infrastructure, funding. Further, although I did not provide the strategic concept to anyone, my laptop was hacked, and subsequent flash drives were stolen; soon after I began seeing this, and other of my solely developed concepts in print.

My profession and intellectual property are priority and valuable to me, as I'm sure you can understand. This is a concept I created, and have had, nor still have no intention of giving away, and of which, I am in process of protecting, in addition to other singularly developed concepts for implementation via my consulting firm. The long and short of which is, this is a letter to Cease and Desist use of my intellectual property. Please send correspondence detailing your intellectual property regarding this strategy, and Cease and Desist validation to:
